CHAMBERS UK, 2020
LICENSING

Practice Overview

Roy accepts instructions in all areas of licensing and planning. He is highly commended for his advocacy, legal knowledge, negotiating skills and approachable client-friendly manner.

He acts for individuals and small businesses as well as public authorities and international corporations throughout England and Wales. Clients include supermarket chains, convenience store operators, petrol companies, breweries, restaurant businesses, taxi companies and drivers, nightclub operators, national stadiums, race courses, festival organisers, police authorities, private individuals, local residents and licensing and planning authorities.

Roy writes and lectures extensively, regularly speaks at national conferences and provides training for local authorities and others. He is professor emeritus.

Direct access

Prof Light is qualified to accept instructions direct from clients under the Bar Council's Public Access Scheme under which members of the public may seek specialist advice and representation direct from him. For further information please contact his clerks.

Areas of Expertise

Administrative Law

Roy's practice covers the actions of administrative and judicial agencies of government, particularly in regulatory, adjudicatory and enforcement matters. He has extensive experience of defending and challenging public law decisions. Roy advises and acts in statutory appeals and judicial reviews and has appeared in a number of leading administrative law cases.

Licensing

Roy is one of the UK's leading licensing barristers and has appeared in a number of leading cases. His extensive experience includes alcohol and entertainment, late night refreshment, open-air festivals, race courses, gambling, taxis and firearms.

Roy advises and acts for local authorities, police forces, independent operators and public corporations throughout England and Wales. He is pleased to take instructions on all matters from simple preparatory advice for independent traders and residents to High Court challenges on behalf of multi-national corporations and local authorities.

Roy writes and lectures extensively, regularly speaks at national conferences and provides training for local authorities and others. He is professor emeritus, Bristol Law School.

Planning

Roy accepts instructions on all planning matters. He has appeared at a number of planning inquiries and enforcement appeals. Recent successful appeal work has included inquiries involving refusal of permission for a large housing development in a heritage landscape and an appeal against refusal of permission for a housing development in an AONB. Recent advice work includes the proposed siting of a leisure complex close to residential accommodation, the expansion of industrial use in a green belt and the effect of delay in bringing judicial review of a planning decision. Roy is also happy to advise on and draft appeal grounds for paper appeals.
