Practice Overview

Julia specialises in children law (both public law and private law) and divorce & financial remedy cases.

Her public law practice focuses on complex care cases. Recent instructions have included cases where the principle allegations were sexual abuse and/or inflicted injuries, as well as issues of neglect and addiction. She has appeared before Magistrates, District & Circuit Judges and the Court of Appeal.

Her private law practice focuses on more complex matters, including allegations of significant domestic abuse, alienation and child abduction.

Areas of Expertise

Family & Divorce

Children Private Law

Julia's private law practice focuses on more complex cases where there are issues such as significant domestic abuse or neglect, factitious or induced illness or forced marriage. She also has extensive experience of international relocation cases and those where the court is concerned for a child who has been returned to the UK post-abduction. She represents parents, extended family members and Guardians.

Children Public Law

Care cases form the bulk of Julia's practice. She is instructed regularly on behalf of parents, Guardians and Local Authorities, as well as by intervenors/other family members. She has experience of a wide range of cases dealing with various issues, including non-accidental injuries, sexual abuse, neglect and addiction. She has appeared in all levels of court up to and including the Court of Appeal.

Recommendations

"I instruct Julia when I want to know the case will be looked after. she is a strong advocate."
