Allocation, assignment and fixed recoverable costs seminar

CPD:
1 hour

This seminar is aimed at all solicitors working in court-based civil litigation. It is likely of limited relevance to social housing and insolvency practitioners.

What will be covered:

Changes to the Civil Procedure Rules from October 2023: Charles will outline the principles of allocation and complexity banding affecting the fast track and the intermediate track. Charles will then consider the structure and potential application of the rules relating to fixed recoverable costs in the new Part 45 with a view to giving practical tips to practitioners navigating the new regime.

Call 2017

"Charles was brilliant and really presented our side very concisely and knowledgeably" Client 2024

The costs of civil litigation is a part of Charles' practice which compliments his other areas of work, as well as being a freestanding area of interest. He regularly delivers training and has written on the subject.

Charles is sought after to advise and represent clients at all stages of litigation in connection with costs matters. He is the author of 'A Practical Guide to Non-party Costs Orders' (2021, Law Brief Publishing) and takes a particular interest in costs and case management conferences, the court's wasted costs jurisdiction and hearings arising under CPR 46.2(1)(b).
